

PRESS RELEASE

SPHERICA GROUP ACCELERATES GROWTH, WELCOMING ITS SECOND SPECIALIST TEAM IN SIX MONTHS

Birmingham, UK, June 2026

Spherica Group has welcomed Spherica Consulting into the Group, marking another important step in its continued growth and the expansion of its specialist capability.

Spherica Consulting becomes the Group's second specialist team in six months, following the addition of Double Diamond Delivery. Together, these teams strengthen Spherica Group's ability to support clients across strategy, transformation, technology, delivery and long-term operational improvement.

The move brings a highly experienced consulting team into the Group, with expertise across transformation, customer experience, operational improvement, strategy, software solutions, data, change management and customer experience.

Spherica Consulting will work alongside the wider Spherica Group and Double Diamond Delivery teams to help clients move from early thinking through to practical delivery. This gives organisations access to support across the full change journey, from understanding the problem, shaping the right strategy and improving customer experience, through to delivering the systems, services and operational change needed to make progress last.

For Spherica Group, the decision was about creating a consulting offer around people with proven experience, strong client relationships and a shared belief in practical, human led transformation - not only about expanding capability.

Kay Riley, Managing Director of Spherica Group, said:

Spherica Consulting has been created to help organisations remove friction, improve how they work and deliver better experiences for the people they serve.

The team brings strong sector experience across education, public sector, charities, membership organisations, professional bodies and commercial businesses. This gives Spherica Group deeper consulting capability in sectors where change is often complex, stakeholder needs are varied and operational pressure is high.

The launch also strengthens the Group's ability to support clients beyond technology delivery alone. Spherica Consulting will help organisations understand where change is needed, what is slowing progress and how people, processes, systems and data can work better together.

Mike Lewis, Consultancy Lead at Spherica Consulting, said:

The addition of Spherica Consulting reflects Spherica Group's ambition to build a joined up offer that supports clients across the full transformation lifecycle.

With Spherica Group's core technology, automation and managed services capability, Double Diamond Delivery's change and delivery expertise, and Spherica Consulting's advisory and transformation experience, the Group is building a stronger end to end offer for organisations that need clear thinking, practical support and sustainable change.

A team with sector fluency

Collectively, members of the Spherica Consulting team supports organisations including VisitBritain, the British Dietetic Association, University of East London, World Commerce and Contracting, The British Academy, Harrow, Richmond and Uxbridge Colleges, and The Duke of Edinburgh's Award.

This experience spans education, public sector, membership, charity, professional bodies and commercial environments. More importantly, the team understands the realities of successful change, from stakeholder complexity and governance pressures to budget constraints, service expectations, and day-to-day operational challenges.

Spherica Consulting's strength lies in getting close to the real problem, listening carefully and finding the friction that slows organisations down. The team brings structure where things feel messy, clarity where decisions feel difficult and momentum where systems, teams or processes have become stuck.

Building for the future

With continued investment and expansion planned throughout 2026, Spherica Group is focused on building specialist capability while keeping the collaborative, client-focused approach that has underpinned its growth. Further additions to the Group are anticipated over the coming year as Spherica continues to build out its end-to-end offering.
